Accountancy - Certified Public Accountant

If you are considering the Certified Public Accountant designation, some of ASU's programs are designed to meet the educational requirements to sit for the CPA exam (note: some states or jurisdictions have requirements in addition to those for education such as work experience). We want you to be aware of the specific educational requirements, especially because some requirements vary by state or jurisdiction. Also, please note that to become certified in some states or jurisdictions, there are additional requirements that must be met beyond those required to sit for the CPA exam. If the chart below indicates that your program does not meet the educational requirements to sit for the CPA exam in a specific state or jurisdiction, you may still be very close, and may be able to meet the educational requirements by completing additional electives. You can find specific information about the extent to which your accountancy program satisfies educational requirements by contacting the professional agencies listed below.

The Certified Management Accountant credential is available through the Institute of Management Accountants.

The CGMA designation is available through the Chartered Global Management Accountant Leadership Program.

If you have questions, please contact wpcareyacc@asu.edu. We will be happy to help.
