

Dorm checklist

When your student moves into their on-campus housing, they won't be able to bring everything from home. While they'll need to decide what personal items to bring, and every college housing experience is a little different, this checklist will get them on the right track when they're packing. To start, here are some things to think about:

Clothes. Your student will have limited storage space, so they should only bring the essentials that they'll definitely wear. Don't worry — they can always bring more back to school after their first trip home.

Prepare for the weather. They'll probably be walking to class, so it's important to take the climate into consideration. If they're moving some place sunny, be sure they bring hats and sunglasses. And if the college campus gets cold in the winter, make sure they pack their coat!

Sticky wall mounts and removable adhesive hooks. Most schools don't allow students to put nails in the walls, so they will need other ways to hang their decor and personalize the space.
