A message from President Michael Crow

As parents and family members of an international student, you are embarking on an exciting adventure. You and your student are now part of a vibrant community of innovative, talented and exemplary students, world-class faculty, and dedicated staff, alumni and families. Arizona State University is proud to be your partner and excited to help your student thrive.

This opportunity means providing a high-quality, customized education experience that empowers your student to become a master learner — an adaptable thinker capable of learning anything, is prepared for the future.

True to its charter, ASU is committed to inclusion, comprehensive excellence and purpose-based discovery that improves the local, national and global communities we serve. With more than 13,000 international students from 136 countries, ASU is ranked as the top public university of choice for international students. Your student will benefit from joining such a culturally diverse, globally connected campus environment.

Ranked #1 in the U.S. for innovation for the last five years by U.S. News & World Report, ASU provides your student with a high-quality education, as well as research, entrepreneurial and other valuable opportunities. Built-in support and student-focused faculty and staff stand ready to help your student discover their talents, grow and refine their skills, pursue their passions, and evolve as lifelong learners. On behalf of ASU, we thank you for choosing us, and we look forward to working with you and your family as you prepare for this new and exciting chapter in your student's life.

Meet the Chan family

The Chans currently live in Beijing, China, but both of their children are ASU-made. Melissa Chan graduated from ASU with a degree in marketing. She had such a positive experience that her brother, Brandon, decided ASU was the right fit for him too. Brandon is studying mechanical engineering at the Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering. Parents Kim and Jenny Chan have simple wishes: They want their children to get jobs when they graduate, and they feel there is great value in sending their kids to the U.S. for college. Melissa and Brandon are gaining exposure and experiences they wouldn't have if they stayed in their home country for school.
